

NCF

CONSUMER CONGRESS

6th April 2017

The best of Brexit for Consumers

What are the opportunities and threats to consumers from Brexit?

Will a 'bonfire of regulations' result in a loss of consumer protection?

How might Brexit help us to achieve more effective consumer protection?

How can we strengthen and amplify the consumer voice?

Venue: Broadway House, Tothill Street,
London, SW1H 9NQ

Registration from 9:30am, Begins at 10:30am

An independent, active consumer voice

Consumer Congress 2017 will examine what Brexit might mean for consumers. It aims to send a message to Government about how the consumer interest can best be served and what needs to be put in place to achieve it.

Over the last 40 years Europe has helped deliver an effective legal framework for product safety, but there is much to be done on services and online trading.

As consumers we pay and demand our say! UK consumers contribute around £1 Trillion to the economy each year.

The consumer voice needs to be heard to help Government and industry to achieve this highly complex revision of our legislative framework. To make a success of Brexit the Government needs to be told what consumers want.

Come to Consumer Congress 2017 and be part of the discussion - add your voice to ours!

Register to attend congress:

www.consumernet.network/form/brexit-congress-registration

Lead sponsor

sponsors

Chartered Trading Standards Institute

